Echo is the first word of a single column document. It runs across the full width of the page, the way a working paper or a thesis is usually set. Long lines like these are read in order from top to bottom, and the hyphenated word at the end of this line is rejoined: implementation should come out as one word. The paragraph ends here.

Foxtrot opens the second page of the single column document. Its words must carry page two, and the running header and the page number printed on this page must not be read aloud as part of the text. The document ends with this sentence.